Livingstone

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM THE GREAT EXPLORER.

The following letter from Dr. Livingstone to Sir Roderick Murchison was read at the meeting of the Geographical Society in London on the 27th of April.

Bemba, 2d Feb. 1867.

My Dear Sir Roderick: This is the first opportunity I have had of sending a letter to the coast, and it is by a party of black Arab slave traders from Bagamoyo, Zanzibar. They had penetrated here for the first time and came by a shorter way than we did. In my despatch to Lord Clarendon I gave but a meagre geographical report, because the traders would not stay more than half a day, but having written that through the night, I persuaded them to give me an hour or two this morning, and if yours is fuller than His Lordship's, you will know how to manage. I mentioned to him that I could not go round the northern end of the Lake Nyassa because the Johanna men would have fled at the first sight of danger, and they did actually flee on the mere report of the acts of the terrible Mazitu at its southern extremity. Had I got them fairly beyond the lake they would have stuck to me; but so long as we had Arab slave parties passing us they were not to be depended on, and they are such inveterate thieves it was quite a relief to get rid of them, though my following was reduced thereby to nine African boys, freed ones, from a school at Nassic, Bombay. I intended to cross at the middle of the lake, but all the Arabs (at the crossing station) fled us soon as they heard that the English were coming, and the owners of two dhows now in the lake kept them out of sight, lest I should burn them as slavers. I remained at the town of Matinka, which is on the water shed between the sea coast and the lake, and about fifty miles from the latter. There are at least a thousand houses (in the town) and Mataka is the most powerful chief in the country. I was in this district, which extends to the lake from the middle of July to the end of September. He was anxious that some of the liberated boys should remain with him, and I tried my best to induce them, but in vain. He wished to be shown how to make use of his cattle in agriculture. I promised to try and get some other boys, acquainted with Indian agriculture, for him. That is the best point I have seen for an influential station, and Mataka showed some sense of right when his people went without his knowledge to plunder at a part of the lake; he ordered the captives and cattle to be sent back. This was his own spontaneous act, and it took place before our arrival, but I accidentally saw the strangers. They consisted of 54 women and children, about a dozen boys and 30 head of cattle and calves. I gave him a trinket in memory of his good conduct, at which he was delighted, for it had not been without opposition that he carried out his orders, and he showed the token of my approbation in triumph. Leaving the shores of the lake we endeavored to ascend Kirk's range, but the people below were afraid of those above, and it was only after an old friend, Katosa or Kleinusura, had turned out with his wives to carry our extra loads that we got up. It is only the edge of a plateau peopled by various tribes of Manganja, who had never been engaged in slaving; in fact they had driven away a lot of Arab slave-traders a short time before. The Kanthunda or climbers live on the mountains that rise out of the plateau. The Chipeta live more on the plains there; the Echews still further north. We went west among a very hospitable people, till we thought we were past the longitude of the Mazitu; we then turned north, and all but walked into the hands of a marauding party of that people. After a rather zigzag course we took up the point we had left in 1863, or say 20 min. west of Chimunga's, crossed the Loangwa in 12 deg. 45 min. S., as it flows in the bed of an ancient lake, and after emerging out of this great hollow we ascended the plateau of Lobisa at the southern limit of 11 deg. S. While we were in the lowlands I could easily supply our party with meat, large game being abundant, but up on these highlands of the Babisa no game was to be found. The country having been depopulated by the slaving in which the people engaged, is now a vast forest, with here and there, at wide intervals, a miserable hamlet. The grain is sown in little patches in the forest, and the people had nothing to sell. We had now a good deal of actual gnawing hunger, as day after day we trod the sloppy, dripping forests, which yield some wretched wild fruits and lots of mushrooms. A woman can collect a load of half a hundred weight; after cooking they pound them into what they call porridge, but woe is me! they are good only for producing dreams of roast beef of by-gone days. They collect six kinds, and reject about ten, some as large as the crown of one's hat. When we got to the Chambeze, which was true to the character of the Zambezi in having abundant animal life in its waters, we soon got an antelope on its banks. We crossed it in 10 deg. 34 min. It was flooded with clear water, but the lines of bushy trees which showed its actual banks were not more than forty yards apart. We arrived here (at Bemba) on the last day of January; it is a stockaded village, with three lines of defence, the inner one having a deep dry ditch around it. I think if I am not mistaken that we are on the water shed we seek between the Chambeze and Loapula. I have not had time to take observations, as it is the rainy season and almost always cloudy, but we shall rest a little here and get some flesh on our bones. We are about ten degrees ten minutes south, thirty-one degrees fifty minutes east. Altitude about 4,500 feet above the sea. The Loapula or Luapula is said to be a very large river, but I hope to send fuller information from Tanganyika. I have done all the hunting myself, have enjoyed good health, and no touch of fever; but we lost all our medicine, the sorest loss of goods I ever sustained; so I am hoping if fever comes to fend it off by native remedies, and trust in the watchful care of a Higher Power. The chief here seems a jolly, frank person, but unless the country is insecure I don't see the use of his lines of circumvallation. He presented a cow on our arrival, and a huge elephant's tusk because I had sat on it. I have no news whatever from the coast since we left it, but hoped for letters and our second stock of goods (a small one) at Ujiji. I have been unable to send anything either. Some letters I had written in hopes of meeting an Arab slave trader but they all skedaddled as soon as they heard the English were coming. I could not get any information as to the route followed by the Portuguese in going to Cazembe till we were on the Babisa plateau. It was then pointed out that they had gone to the westward of that which from the Loangwa Valley seems a range of mountains. The makers of maps have placed it (the Portuguese route) much too far to the east. The repetition of names of rivers, which is common in this country, probably misled them. There are four Loangwas flowing into Lake Nyassa. Would you kindly say to Captain Richards that I had to draw some rifles and ammunition from her Majesty's ship Wasp, and I shall feel obliged if he takes that right. With kindest regards to Lady Murchison, I am ever affectionately yours, D. LIVINGSTONE.

A Judgment for a Fine is not a Debt provable against the Estate of a Bankrupt.

District Court U. S., District of Oregon—March Term 1868. In Re Robert Sutherland.

From the certificate of the Register it appears that the State of Oregon proved a debt against the estate of the Bankrupt amounting to $1,194 [illegible] Upon the motion of the assignee the claim has been set down for examination before the court.

From the evidence and admissions of the counsel for the State and Assignee, it appears that on December 3d and 4, 1861, two several judgments were given in the Circuit Court of the State for the county of Multnomah, sentencing the bankrupt to pay two certain fines, and that he be committed until the same be paid. The debt proved before the Register is a part of the sum for which these judgments were given, the remainder having been paid.

It is also understood from the admission of counsel that these fines were imposed upon the bankrupt as a punishment prescribed by law for the commission of a crime of which he had been duly convicted. Indeed a judgment that a party pay a fine in the absence of anything to the contrary must be presumed to have been given as a punishment for the commission of a crime.

The State Act of Jan. 25, 1854, in force when these judgments were given, provides that "any convict confined in jail for the non-payment of a fine may be discharged from such imprisonment by the Commissioners of the county, if he is unable to pay the fine. * * * But such convict shall not thereby be released from the payment of such fine, but the same may be collected by execution at any future time." Under this act the bankrupt was discharged from imprisonment soon after the judgments were given.

Section 19 of the Act declares: That all debts due and payable from the bankrupt at the time of the adjudication of bankruptcy * * * may be proved against the estate of the bankrupt. Does the term debt include a judgment for a fine? Blackstone (3 Bl. C. 154) says "the legal acceptation of debt is a sum of money due by certain and express agreement." This, however, is not the popular acceptation of the word. Says the Supreme Court of Massachusetts (3 Met. 526): "The word debt is of large import, including not only debts of record or judgments and debts of specialty, but also obligations under simple contracts to a very wide extent; and in its popular sense includes all that is due to a man under any form of obligation or promise." This view of the subject was approved by Justice Story (2 Story R. 42).

To ascertain then, whether the word debt is here used in the legal or popular sense, recourse must be had to the subject matter and the context. Immediately following the general clause of Section 19, concerning debts, as above quoted, it is provided that: "All demands against the bankrupt for or on account of any goods or chattels wrongfully taken, converted or withheld by him may be proved or allowed as debts to the amount of the value of the property so taken or withheld, with interest." The section then proceeds to provide for the case of contingent debts and liabilities as well as unliquidated damages upon a contract or promise, and then concludes: "No debts other than those above specified shall be proved or allowed against the estate."

From all the provisions of the section it is apparent that the word debt is used in the legal or limited sense. If it were used in the popular sense it would not have been necessary to have specially provided that "demands for goods wrongfully taken, etc., may be proved or allowed as debts." In the popular sense such demands are debts and would have been included in the preceding clause providing for the proving all debts."

A discharge in bankruptcy releases the bankrupt from all debts which were or might have been proved against his estate (Sec. 34 B. Act.) These fines were imposed upon the bankrupt as a punishment for crimes of which he was convicted. If provable against his estate he may be discharged from the payment of them and from arrest made to enforce such payment.

In effect, this would be allowing the National Government, through its courts, to grant pardons for crimes committed against the State. A person convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to pay a fine of a thousand dollars by a discharge in bankruptcy, would be relieved from the punishment affixed by law to his crime. I do not think that the act while it reasonably admits of any other construction ought to be construed so as to permit or allow such a consequence.

Looking at the letter of the act, or the nature of the subject, either separately or conjunctively, it appears to me, that a judgment for a fine imposed as a punishment for a crime, is not a debt provable against the estate of the bankrupt. Abstractly considered, it may be proper that such a judgment should be proved as a debt against the estate for the purpose of receiving any dividend as a part payment thereof, without effecting a full discharge of the same. Such a provision is found in section 33 concerning debts created by fraud or embezzlement, or by defalcation, while acting as a public officer, or in fiduciary character. But judgments for fines are not included in this special provision because not enumerated in it.

In the People v. Spalding (10 Paige Ch. R. 284) it was decided that a discharge under the Bankrupt Act of 1841, did not discharge a party from a judgment for a fine imposed upon him as a punishment for a contempt committed by violating an injunction. The contempt was merely constructive and the fine imposed was directed by statute to be ultimately applied in satisfaction of the civil injury to the party who obtained the injunction. The court of errors affirmed the decision (7 Hill 301). On error to the Supreme Court of the United States the judgment of the court of errors was affirmed. (4 How., 21.)

This case seems decisive of the question. Indeed it goes much farther than the Court is required to go in this case. The Bankrupt Act of 1841 in the use of the word debt is much less qualified than the present one; yet the Court held that it did not include a judgment for a fine. In the case under consideration, the fine was imposed purely as a punishment for the commission of an actual crime, while in the case cited, the fine was imposed nominally as a punishment, but in reality as a compensation to the creditor for the civil injury he sustained by reason of the commission of the acts constituting the contempt.

The claim must be expunged from the list of debts proved against the estate of the bankrupt.
DEADY, Judge.

Grant and Colfax

The Sacramento Record, in an article under the above heading, thus speaks of nominees of the National Union Republican party:

We not only congratulate the country upon this event, but from a selfish standpoint congratulate the Republican party, for no man in the nation is so well fitted as Grant to dispel from force any differences of opinion that now exist and may hereafter arise in the Republican ranks, and unite the people around a common altar for the welfare of this great republic. His past deeds stand before us as guarantees for his future untarnished by the coarse efforts of rivalry, jealousy and enmity. Great is the man who can lead his armies to victory through the destructive elements of war; greater still the successful soldier who survives the assaults of unprincipled rivals and industrious enemies; greater still the hero who has ascended the highest pinnacle of fame and wears entwined in his crown of glory the modest attributes of Christianity and uncorrupt resolves of patriotism; but greater still he who seeks not the dazzling splendor of idle admiration and says to his country, "My services are yours. Countrymen, do with me as you will. Where my country most needs my services there am I willing to be found." Such a man is Grant, nearer in character to George Washington than any man yet known in the history of the country. Well may it be said of him: "The first in war, the first in peace and the first in the hearts of his countrymen." Then let us shout, hurrah for Grant and Colfax. Let the temples dedicated to freedom [illegible] and burning words of truth. Let the [illegible] and liberty [illegible] who [illegible] vigor us life and consecrated [illegible] future. The Political Situation.

Ever since the election in California last fall it has been a work of difficulty for the Union party to maintain its ground in Oregon. The sudden change in that State from 18,000 Union majority to 9,000 Democratic, though brought about mainly by improper management and bad conduct on the part of Union men themselves, could not but have its influence here. There were few who did not feel this at the time, and none who are not compelled to admit it now.

Our majority in this State at the last election was so small as to be practically nothing. We had no margin to go upon. The State is so situated that a majority of new accessions for the past two years were quite likely to be against us. Then again, it cannot be doubted that some who voted for the Union nominees two years ago voted for Smith in the late election. This number throughout the State is undoubtedly small; but if they would aggregate two or three hundred, they would necessarily carry over a good deal of force to the opposite party, at a time when the two parties were on an equipoise and so small a change would turn the scale.

On two points the Democrats have kept up an incessant clamor. They have lost no opportunity to denounce "niggers" and "taxes." On every occasion, and when there was no occasion; at every cross-roads, in the streets and at the market-places, they have banged away with persistent energy on the same old string. Their weightiest argument has been (to adopt their own style of expression)—"[illegible]" and on this they have built the [illegible] fabric of their political principles. Democrats were appalled at the question put to them with such earnest indignation by [illegible] Smith,—"Do you want your daughter to marry a nigger?" or,—"Would you allow a nigger to force himself into a seat at church between you and your wife?" and to prevent this undesirable matrimonial alliance, or this unwarrantable trespass upon the rights of Democratic families chancing to attend church, the Democrat has labored early and late for success in the election. We hope it is now settled that the daughters of Oregon [illegible] will not be either forced or persuaded to marry niggers." And now that the election is over and we cannot be suspected of having anything to gain by the declaration, we take this opportunity of assuring these timid people that their vigorous protest against "negro equality," the monstrous thing which it is supposed they were voting against, was [illegible] altogether needless work, as the Congressional policy of reconstruction, which [illegible] the ballot for the negro, never contemplated and can never establish, "negro [illegible]." We must add also that those who supposed they were voting for the taxation of bonds are equally deceived; for if they should carry every State in the Union they could not tax the bonds. They might try to do it; but that has been tried before, with what success the [illegible] of the country tell.

The Union party worked with a good deal of energy during the canvass, but it worked without adequate organization. Much more could have been done by working in a systematic way. But we find fault with none who stood honestly with us; we only wish to [illegible] to them the supreme necessity of united, determined, organized action in future. The party is too earnest in its belief in its principles to be disheartened by a single defeat. We must show ourselves worthy partakers of the spirit of our party brethren in the great Northern States. They are living in the immediate presence of the great conflict, and are not going to give it up. They mean to win in November. They will surely carry a majority of the electoral votes of the North for Grant and Colfax. And to make our victory overwhelming, we shall get the votes of nearly, if not quite, all the late rebel States. Their speedy restoration to the Union is perfectly assured. We now raise the shout, Hurrah for Grant! and we tell our [illegible] that we shall carry Oregon for him against any such candidate as they have declared for, the secessionist, Pendleton.

Instead of sparring each railroad company, the Union Pacific and Central Pacific, to do its utmost in stretching the road to its meeting place. The Union Pacific has made most progress in [illegible] as it had a plain for a road bed, while [illegible], as the Sacramento Bee remarks, has made most progress in work actually [illegible]. Now the relative positions are changed. The Union Pacific has to enter upon its mountainous district, while the Central Pacific [illegible] the plain, and will so [illegible] make up in distance for the apparent loss of time. [illegible] struggle of brain and sinew and money; and in the interests of peace and for the advancement of civilization—an effort as to who will do most good in the shortest time! It is pleasing to turn from war and its alarms, from the destruction of life and property, to this contest for the creation of national, local and individual wealth. That was a wise provision in the law which set several conflicting interests at work to construct this road, pitting them against each other, and giving each exactly what it earned.

On the 22d of May, a party of travelers returning from California to Owyhee in a wagon, were fired on by Indians between Sheep Ranch and Inskip's. One of the party, named David Smith, was severely wounded, a ball entering his breast and passing out at his side. Another named David Woden received a slight but painful wound. On the same day, as the stage was passing by the same place, it was fired on, and the driver, a young man named Nathan Dixon, instantly killed. There were ten passengers in the stage, none of whom were injured.

Before Mr. Johnson's acquittal the New York World, in an article upon what he would be likely to do if convicted, declared that he would stump the country,—adding the following left-handed compliment to the intelligence of the South. "He perfectly understands the average Southern mind, and has an unrivalled capacity of talking to its level."

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY, SECOND DISTRICT.—The majority for Powell (Union) in Marion county, is reported to be 330. Curl (Democrat) has 286 majority in Linn. Yamhill gives Powell 31 majority and Polk gives Curl 30. It seems pretty certain, therefore, that Powell is elected.

The Boise Democrat "has no hesitancy in saying that Grant is now as near the Presidential chair as he ever will be." What a pity the Democrat is so remorseless!

The Result in the State.

We present below the majorities, official and estimated, which we have been able to ascertain:

Counties.	Logan.	Smith.
Clackamas	25
Clatsop	30
Columbia		44
Linn		300
Marion	320
Polk		35
Yamhill	20
Washington	147
Lane		130
Jackson		250
Wasco		150
Multnomah		70

Douglas and Benton are very close and claimed by both parties. Smith will probably have 300 majority west of the Cascade mountains, and as many east as the Democratic managers there have thought it necessary to give to overbalance the Union vote which was expected on this side. Umatilla is reported at 235 majority for Smith, and Union at 300 majority. In Wasco the whole Democratic county ticket is elected, including the State Senator. In Polk the Democratic county ticket has from 9 to 30 majority. In Yamhill the Union county ticket has from 13 to 36 majority. The vote on Congressman was, Logan, 614; Smith, 594. S. C. Adams, Union candidate for State Senator, has 21 majority. Upton, Union, is elected Judge in the Fourth District, and Mosher, Democrat, Judge in the Second District. The contest between Gibbs and Reed for Prosecuting Attorney in the Fourth District can only be decided by the official count. The race is equally close for Attorney in the Second District, and the result must be determined in the same way. In the next Legislature there will probably be eight Union and fourteen Democratic Senators. The Democrats will have a large majority in the House—how many we cannot now estimate.

If reports from the eastern side of the mountains are sustained, Smith will have not less than 1,000 majority.

In printing Dr. McBride's letter of May 30th, in regard to the Adams circular, the types made him say that the document he was referring to was a "private" letter, instead of a printed letter. Dr. McBride meant to say that the Adams letter was a public document and not a private letter, although addressed apparently to him.

In one of the Georgia Districts, comprising several counties, which gave the heaviest negro majorities, Nelson Tift, Democrat, is elected to Congress. His whole majority, nearly 3,000, was rolled up by negro votes. Which is the white man's party?

The Carson, (Nev.) Appeal says it is not an over-estimate to declare that the platform of the National Union Republican party is the most complete and satisfactory piece of political work ever submitted to the American people.

A DUEL WITH RIFLES. The Nashville Press and Times details a duel with rifles fought a few days ago in Overton county, by two young men, Waldron and Jarvis, whose families had long been at feud. Jarvis had sneered at the other's courage, and received a challenge in reply. Both were splendid marksmen. Says the Press and Times:

Two seconds paced off the distance, the two men were placed with their backs toward each other, the pieces were loaded, and to the about one, two, three, given by one of the seconds standing upon a high rock to one side and about midway between the two combatants, they turned and fired. Jarvis was wounded through the fleshy part of the left arm, whilst his bullet whistled savagely just above his antagonists head. "Are you satisfied?" said the wounded man's second to the other's friend. "Waldron wants another shot," was the reply.

A stern, savage smile lighted up the features of young Jarvis as his arm was bound up to staunch the blood, but he said not a word. The rifles were loaded again, and once more to the shouted signal the two men wheeled and fired. The reports were almost simultaneous. Waldron ran forward a few steps, staggered, reeled and fell into the arms of his friend, bleeding and senseless. He was shot through the heart.

Jarvis went slowly home, saddled his horse, and, telling his family that he was going to Monticello, left the country.

The Boston Traveller says: "To an inquiry how one of the Bank Presidents in this Commonwealth had made his fortune, the reply was: 'Mainly by economy.' When rendering an income return, this gentleman's attention was called to an apparent omission. 'Have you more than one gold watch?' asked the official. 'Not one—a useless expense.' 'Any carriages, sir?' 'I don't indulge in one.' 'A piano, I think you have?' 'Sir, I wish you to understand I own nothing that does not draw interest.'"

Tornado in Canada.

From the Toronto Globe, May 6.

On Wednesday last, about half-past five o'clock, P. M., the Townships of Stanley and Goderich were visited by a most terrific tornado, damaging and destroying an immense amount of property. It had been raining considerably during the day, and about five o'clock a violent hail storm commenced, which continued for some time, during which, hail stones, or rather icicles fell, measuring one and a half inches in diameter, and two or three inches long, and tapering to a point like an icicle. It was during this hail storm that a mighty rushing sound was heard, in a southwest direction across the lake, and turning the eyes in this direction, a spectacle awfully grand and sublime presented itself. Around what looked like a dense, black, spiral column of smoke, balloon shaped, being larger at the top than the bottom, the clouds were whirling and clashing with a fury and violence utterly indescribable, the tail of which would ever and anon lash and writhe like a monstrous serpent, its force being irresistible. Accompanying this, but a considerable distance above it, was a large black cloud, but which did not appear to be in such violent commotion, although it too would frequently part asunder, and then immediately clash together again in awful grandeur. Its first approach to land was about three miles below Bayfield, sweeping and carrying everything before it. Although a great amount of damage was done by the devastation of woods and fences, the buildings on the Sable or Lake Shore road fortunately escaped uninjured. It swept its road through the woods between the Sable and Brownson lines. The first buildings that opposed its fury were Mr. Daniel German's, Brownson line; these it utterly demolished, carrying huge fragments of them, (timbers, roof, &c.) with it, like thistle down. Passing through the corner of Mr. Brown's woods, it ruthlessly and unceremoniously trespassed upon the estate of David Hood Ritchie, Esq., where, after passing through that gentleman's splendid orchard, uprooting and breaking every tree in its course, it encountered his barn and sheds, the barn it completely razed, the roofs of the sheds were taken off, and also a part of the verandah of the house. In crossing the Bayfield gravel road, it took the roof off the toll house, occupied by Mr. Campbell. Mrs. Campbell, in her anxiety to save her children, was seriously and dangerously hurt by the falling of the chimney. It struck and carried away completely a cow shed of Mr. Campbell's. The roof of Mr. Erratt's barn and stable was next carried away, and it then passed over the farm of Mr. Callaway, leveling fences and carrying the rails completely away across the Bayfield river, and into the township of Goderich, where I hear it did a great amount of damage, but cannot give the particulars. I have been at great pains to get a description of it from all whom I have seen who witnessed it, and also to ascertain their impressions and feelings at the time. All agree in describing it as I have done, but their impressions concerning it were varied, some thinking it was the Judgment Day at hand, some that it was a volcanic eruption, and others, who had more presence of mind and coolness, and had no doubt heard and read of tornadoes and waterspouts in tropical climates, rightly conjectured what it was, and wisely tried to avoid it. It could be heard at a distance of eight or ten miles, roaring like a chimney on fire, but much louder. Its power seems to have been greatest vertically, statements about which appear incredible. I will relate a few, for the veracity of which I will vouch. After it had struck Mr. Ritchie's buildings, the long vertical column seemed to be a wild vortex of debris, whirling and flying in the wildest confusion and with inconceivable velocity, hundreds of feet in the air; large timbers and whole trees were whirling and flying in the air; board fences, by the rod, were torn up and carried away like chaff, the posts being drawn up like hand stakes. When it crossed the Bayfield river the water was sucked out of the bed of the river in torrents, and carried off. Large rails as thick as a man's thigh, were carried high in the air, and twisted into two pieces as you would twist a hay rope in two. Plows and other farming implements were carried high into the air, and came to the earth again dashed to pieces. Part of Mr. Ritchie's shed roof was found in the Goderich township, some two and a half miles distant; a cushion of a buggy which was at Mr. Ritchie's, was carried to the river, a distance of a mile and a half. But the most singular circumstance connected with it that has yet been made known to me is that of Mr. Campbell's clock, which was carried out of the house and deposited in Mr. Bates' field, and when found the clock was going all right, although I think it must have experienced pretty hard wind. A strong sulphurous smell was perceived at the time it was passing, and for some time after. Its velocity in a horizontal direction was not very great—not more, I should think, than ten or twelve miles an hour. All who saw it concur in saying it was an awfully grand and sublime spectacle beyond description, and although quite satisfied at having once seen it, never wish to see a return of such an impressive and awe inspiring visitor.

Stage Robbery in Montana.

Mr. James Mullany, who arrived from Virginia, M. T., on the stage of last Thursday, relates a most interesting meeting he had with road agents on the way down. The stage from Virginia had but one passenger, Abraham Polak, besides Mr. Mullany. Mr. Polak was a trader who had not met with extremely good success, and was going home to Chicago, possessed of about $850 in gold. The treasure box of W. F. & Co., from Helena to Salt Lake containing, it is said, about $10,000, was in the boot, put well down under the seat and covered up. The Virginia and way box was also in the boot, but more easy of access. It contained, it was supposed, not far from $1,000 of different kinds of money, letters, etc. When about 100 miles beyond Port Neuf, and as the stage was crossing a little stream called Dry Creek, three masked road agents with a yell and shot guns and Henry rifles pointed at the driver, brought the team to a halt. One of the villains immediately directed his attention to the driver and the other two to the passenger. They first ordered the driver to "come out with that treasure box," mixing some obscenity and profanity with the command. The driver threw out the Virginia box, which seemed to satisfy the robbers so far as he was concerned. They then commanded the passenger to get out of the stage in the same choice and affectionate terms, by way of spicing the occasion and to make the passengers feel comfortable like, while being fleeced. The robbers demanded the passenger's money, when Mr. Polak went through himself and shelled out all he had, $850. They directed him to lay it on a rock close by and go back into the stage. One of the band, with a shot gun pointed, told Mullaney to "shell out," but instead of shelling out, he protested the purest innocence of having anything in his possession to "shell out," not even a quarter of a dollar.

The ruffians commanded him again to "come down" or he would "blow him to h—l in a minute." Mullany still declared he had no money, and invited them to search his clothes. His perfect simplicity and earnestness of manner seemed to satisfy the highwaymen and they did not search him. They then ordered him into the stage and the driver to go on. Our friend Mullany congratulates himself upon his strategy and good luck in keeping his three hundred in greenbacks. We can appreciate that most convincing innocence of manner with which he looked down the shot gun and assured the bandit that "he hadn't a cent." There is nothing so valuable to a man in a tight place as a cool head. Mullany has one that is generally level as well as cool. His fellow passenger was so excited that he got a pistol out of the bottom of the stage when it was first stopped, but Mullany snatched it out of his hand and put it under a seat—knowing from the array of shot guns that such a show of resistance would be instant death to some if not the whole party on the stage. It seemed not to occur to the robbers that there might be another treasure box in the stage boot, and the driver said nothing about it, so this daring exploit only realized to the perpetrators about two thousand dollars out of over twelve thousand dollars that was just as easy to get as the two thousand. They are evidently green hands at stage robbing, or they would have made a more thorough examination into the passenger's and Wells, Fargo & Co's finances. Mr. Mullany thinks, from the description given by Ramey, that they were the same three men who robbed and murdered Welch on the Lemhi road last fall. Arriving at the next station the telegraph was put to work and six mounted men started in pursuit within a few hours after the robbery.—Idaho Statesman, May 30.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial says of Jerry Black:

Black is a very curious character, full of idiosyncracies. He prepares most of his arguments at home, walking up and down the floor at night, where he would walk the whole night long if his wife did not appear along toward 1 o'clock and lead him to bed. It is related that on one occasion he had bought a bran new hat, which had been laid on the floor by some mistake. Jerry mistook it in the imperfect light of his parlor for a spittoon, and next morning the hat looked like a great quid of tobacco. He had spit it nearly even full.

It is noted that as a singular fact that during the elections now going forward in the South a great many of the negroes have voted the Democratic and Conservative ticket, in defiance of the radical influence brought to bear upon them.—Baltimore Commercial, April 27th.

According to the Pall Mall Gazette the English diplomatic service is so monopolized by members of noble families that it is next to impossible to obtain advancement without family interest. In 1855 the list of foreign attaches showed 68 noblemen to 11 commoners, three-fourths of the latter holding inferior positions; while at present the proportion of aristocracy to gentry is 21 to 18. The effect of this preponderance of the former class is to encourage favoritism, lower the tone of the service, and prevent untitled men, however capable, from entering it.

It is said that one of the members of the Ohio Legislature, who recently voted for the bill disfranchising students, wrote while traveling abroad, to have his letters directed to "[illegible], Esqr." One of the pictures he then purchased, and now adorning his "palatial residence," is labeled "An Oshun Land skip."

ALTHOUGH MANY PERSONS ARE exceedingly hard to please, particularly in matters of dress, yet it is now generally conceded that no lady or gentleman however fastidious they may be, can thoroughly examine the splendid stock of Dress Goods and Clothing, now offered so cheap at KOHN & FISHEL'S, No. 91 Front street, without finding just what they want. Any person can illustrate this fact, simply by trying the experiment.

An Oregon Patent Washing Machine.—Mr. A. J. Johnson, who has the agency for the State of Oregon for the sale of rights, exhibited in our office yesterday one of Biron's Universal Washing Machines, patented December 31, 1867 by Mr. [illegible] of Forest Grove, Oregon. This machine seems to have some advantages over most others in use. In the first place it is cheaper by a considerable than any [illegible] while the "Economy," for instance, costs [illegible]. Its cheapness places it within the reach of almost every family, however poor. It works somewhat on the plan of the "Economy," but the [illegible] is a skeleton which allows the water to pass through, thus avoiding its resisting force [illegible] the working of the levers much easier. One of the best evidences of the value of the machine is the fact that the inventor, who was a poor man, has already sold rights on [illegible] circumstances. The people [illegible]. For further particulars, call upon Mr. Johnson, whose advertisement may be found in the Weekly Oregonian.

A Siwash Sell.—Among the crowd of strangers who have been in the city for a few days are a couple of Indians who have evidently not been much accustomed to the ways and the usages of civilized life. Yesterday they were jogging down Front street when near the ferry landing they came upon a diminutive monkey which was not only drunk, but disposed to make himself personally familiar with them. The Siwashes had evidently never seen a monkey and didn't know what to make of him. They were a little startled at first, but upon getting out of his reach, they halted and began to discuss the nature of the beast. After bronching and abandoning as untenable several theories as to the creature's origin, [illegible] decided in Jargon that the thing must be a bad Siwash sent back from the hunting grounds to pester the living for the special delectation of the Mesache Tye. This theory was at once adopted by the other with an affirmative "ugh," when both of them hastened to put a wide distance between themselves and the bad Indian.

County Court—Marquam, Judge.—The following business has been transacted in County Court during the week:

J. C. Hawthorne appointed guardian of Theodore White, an insane person.

Estate of A. J. Stiles, deceased, C. C. Stiles administrator, final account filed and set for hearing at the July Term.

In the matter of the guardianship of minor heirs of Henry McCue, deceased, order authorizing sale of lot No. 6, in block 143, city of Portland.

Ferry, Executor and Hamilton, Executrix of estate of C. H. Hamilton, deceased, vs. R. P. Olds & Jordan, [illegible] by stipulation, until next term.

County Commissioners.—During the sittings of the county commissioners Wednesday and Thursday the following business was transacted:

Petition of H. M. Humphrey and others for re-location of county road from the head of the canyon at Jones' old bridge near Watson's place. Viewers appointed to meet on the 15th inst.

Petition for re-location of county road from Switzler's place to Love's ferry. Road relocated as recommended by viewers.

Petition for re-location of road from Mitchell's to Terminal road at the crossing of Beaver creek. Petition and report of viewers read first time.

Lots of New Things.—Mr. W. T. Shanahan returned from San Francisco by the Continental, bringing with him a great assortment of new pictures, musical instruments and fancy goods, too numerous to mention. Some new styles of German pictures—painted on raised cards—are really fine. He, also, has some very beautiful (new style) colored stereoscopic pictures. By the next [illegible] he expects to receive a new invoice of pianos and [illegible]. Shanahan is the prince of music and [illegible] in Oregon, and his gallery is one of the most delightful places for the lover of the beautiful in art, to be found on the Pacific coast.

Sent to the Asylum.—Dr. Myers, the person who had been employed to accompany Capt. McGillvray's [illegible] to Fort Kenay, Alaska, in the capacity of surgeon, became insane making it necessary not only to have him here but to employ another surgeon. During the afternoon yesterday, Dr. Myers conducted himself in such a manner as to lead to the belief that he might [illegible] self-destruction, and he was, therefore, secured by order of the county Judge sent to the asylum. [illegible] A son of Prof. Wythe of Salem, was employed [illegible] and sailed with the command yesterday.

[illegible] for San Francisco.—The steamship Continental [illegible] for San Francisco at 6 P. M. yesterday [illegible] passengers, Mrs J. M. Watson, Capt [illegible] D. D. Orton and wife, C. Arp, B. B. Powers [illegible] Jno C. Stryker, D. Davis, T. O'Connor, M [illegible] B. Francis, U. S. A., Jas. B. Newby, B. Henry, [illegible] Gottgetreu, W. J. Matson, wife and child, [illegible] Mrs. S. Knox, Mrs. W. N [illegible] Davis, W. J. Humphrey, C. Cooper, [illegible] and 12 in the steerage.

Bad Piece of Road.—We hear repeated complaints [illegible] who are obliged to travel the Canyon road [illegible] of the terrible condition of the road from the county line westward, in what is known [illegible] Beaver Dam district. The road is represented as [illegible] so that it is almost a break-neck adventure to pass [illegible], and yet, it is said, the Supervisor [illegible] good enough and neglects to make repairs. Why [illegible] the County Commissioners of Washington county [illegible] after the matter?

[illegible] for San Francisco.—The following is the Continental's freight list: 9,153 qr sks flour, 200 hlf sks flour, [illegible] flour, 1,050 sks oats, 120 [illegible] and 31 [illegible], 136 boxes eggs, 21 cases salmon, 50 kegs [illegible] pkgs butter, 34 hlf bbls dried apples, 36 [illegible], 19 hlf bbls lard, 15 hlf bbls cider, 10 cases [illegible] furs, 2 bales skins, 22 sheep's pelts, 75 dry [illegible], 1 buggy, 11 cases and 16 pkges mdse.

[illegible] Produce.—The following were the arrivals [illegible] per steamer Senator 1 roll leather, 2,148 [illegible] brown apples and 1 box eggs. Per steamer [illegible], 114 sks oats, 9 hlf bbls dried apples, 3 boxes [illegible] kegs. Per Alert, 3,140 qr sks [illegible], 3 hlf bbls lard, 2 boxes eggs, 1 [illegible].

[illegible] In Vacation.—On Wednesday in the [illegible] Hopkins vs. J. B. Wallace, judgment by [illegible] entered against defendant for the sum of [illegible].

[illegible] & Gerling vs. P. B. Stenoll, judgment by [illegible] against defendant for $87 80, gold coin and [illegible] sum of $155.

For Victoria.—The Active which sailed for [illegible] yesterday, took four tons merchandise and one [illegible] and fifty head of fat sheep. In addition to this, she will have a large amount of army baggage, quarter [illegible] and commissary stores belonging to the military [illegible], which she takes to Port Gamble, en route to Ft [illegible], Alaska.

[illegible].—Among the passengers for Alaska by the [illegible] was our young friend Fred Crawford, [illegible] with Capt. McGillvray's command, as sutler for [illegible], Alaska. Fred's many friends in this city will [illegible] in wishing him a successful issue of this first [illegible] venture in the business of life.

[illegible].—While the people in the city have been [illegible] loud and long upon the late rainy weather [illegible] have been continually looking out of their [illegible] over the immense amount of good it [illegible] doing their crops. It is said it has been "just [illegible]" for the farming interests.

[illegible].—The brig Brewster arrived here yes- [illegible] in tow by the Senator. The latter lighted [illegible] five tons of iron, Wednesday afternoon, [illegible] she returned yesterday morning the brig was [illegible] balance of her cargo will be taken on here [illegible] mostly of grain and flour.

[illegible] the County Hospital.—The following persons [illegible] received permits to enter the county [illegible] May 28th—Henry Camphor and Thomas McGuire. June 2d—John Paul, resident of Clackamas [illegible] and William Miller. June 4th—Isaac Hillier.

[illegible].—This bark was towed yesterday after [illegible] to Oswego where she will take on [illegible] tons of pig iron. Upon returning she will [illegible] her cargo with shooks from the St. Johns fact [illegible] from one of the mills below.

[illegible] Shipment.—The following amounts of treasure [illegible] per steamer Continental, yesterday:

[illegible] Fargo & Co.	$35 000
[illegible]	9 000
[illegible]	44 000

[illegible] man who was injured in the shooting affray [illegible] the other day, and sent to the hospital [illegible] effects of his injuries, yesterday.

[illegible].—It was said that quite a number of Indians [illegible] the Siletz Reservation have arrived at the [illegible] this city within the last few days.

[illegible] Summer Hats.—The Express Hats seem to be [illegible] since this fine weather has set in than [illegible] also the Neglige and Long Branch Hats, of which Mr. [illegible] have just received a new lot.

The [illegible] Styles of Boys' Hats received per last [illegible] and for sale by J. A. Daly, 103 Front street.

[illegible] in want of Photographs, we would say that [illegible] first-rate time to visit Buchtel's Gallery, where [illegible] and finest styles may be had—J. H. Mont[illegible].

[illegible].—Those stylish Summer Suits, direct from New York, and for sale by Wm. Currier & Co. 103 [illegible].

That Second Plank

From the Marysville (Cal) Appeal

The Copperhead organs are severely exercised at the second plank of the Union Republican platform adopted at Chicago. They wanted something more radical, less conservative. It [illegible] the Republicans to thus [illegible] the Copperhead thunder. The Convention ought to have been more magnanimous [illegible] such a platform [illegible] the humbuggery of the Democratic party. The Copperheads were [illegible] strong on "negro suffrage" [illegible] in the Union [illegible].

The Copperheads [illegible] two new fires [illegible]. They still charge the Union party as [illegible] radicals, but [illegible] their attention [illegible]. We are now prompted [illegible] and stultification. We are no longer radicals, but have basely deserted our principles! The logic of this [illegible] is perfectly characteristic of [illegible] Democracy from 1860 to 1868. The so-called Democratic party have been howling against universal suffrage in the North, making it the whole stock and trade of the principles of their party, and at the same time charging the Union party with favoring it. We are very certain the National Republican party was never committed to the doctrine of impartial suffrage. Republican State Conventions have endorsed the universal suffrage principle. Republican Legislatures have submitted the question to the people for approval or rejection. They can do so again and again without doing violence to the second plank in the platform adopted at Chicago. Submission to the will of the people is the spirit of the plank. The question will be [illegible] submitted until universal suffrage is adopted or its friends tire from defeat. Where then is the self abasement and stultification in the second plank of the Union Republican platform?

The Copperheads hoped and prayed that the Union Republican National Convention would adopt a declaration in favor of Congress passing a law making universal suffrage obligatory in the States. Congress never favoring any such proposition, Sumner and a few others only supporting such a law. We fail to see why the Copperheads should have entertained such expectations. Their wishes in the matter evidently overcame their judgment. The National Union Republican Convention was certainly not expected to adopt a creed to gratify the wishes and expectations of Copperheads and their rebel sympathizers, such a platform as would tend to injure its own organization and give aid and comfort to its opponents? The Copperhead leaders must be slightly out of their senses.

The second plank of the National Union Republican platform is perfectly consistent with the well established principles of the party. The doctrine of submission is simply a reassertion of the principle of Popular Sovereignty. It is the principle that was applied to Territories for the settlement of the question of slavery. The Union party declares that the people shall decide by their votes whether universal suffrage shall prevail. If they say yes, then it is well. If no, then the minority must submit to the will of the majority. We therefore fail to see that "self debasement and stultification" which the Copperheads endeavor to lay at the door of the late Chicago Convention. What worries the Copperheads is a consciousness that their nigger thunder in the Northern States is exhausted. Their "nigger" wind has become paralyzed and utterly powerless to arouse the prejudices of the masses.

Three Infamous Copperhead Laws

From the Chicago Tribune

Senator elect Thurman has drafted a bill, which the Copperhead majority of the Ohio Legislature is expected to pass, "to prohibit the Supreme Court from considering cases out of their order." The object of the bill is to prevent three infamous acts which that infamous Legislature has passed from getting before the Supreme Court of Ohio previous to next fall's election to test their constitutionality, as they well know that those acts will not stand judicial scrutiny for a moment. The first of those laws is the "Visible Admixture" act, which disfranchises every dark complexioned white man who cannot prove that he is of pure European descent. It matters not if his grandmother was an octoroon and his grandfather a pure white, he is disfranchised, though he may have been a legal voter since the admission of Ohio into the Union. A man is also disfranchised if he cannot prove that he was born in lawful wedlock. This new Copperhead law pronounces that every such man is a negro. If it be enforced a good many Democrats will find themselves suddenly stripped of the elective franchise. Men of less than half negro blood have been voters in Ohio for thirty odd years by a decision of a Democratic bench of Supreme Judges. This Copperhead disfranchising act therefore undertakes to nullify the decision of the highest court in the State as to who may vote under the constitution of Ohio.

The second act in question disfranchises all the students and professors of all the colleges, seminaries and academies in Ohio, which has created a tremendous indignation in every school of learning in the Buckeye State. It has been a rule in Ohio always that students who were single men were legal voters in the precinct where the college is located if they are citizens of the State. But as four fifths of the young men who are seeking an education are opposed to Copperhead rebeldom, Pendleton and repudiation, the Copperheads of the Ohio Legislature, who happen to be in a majority for the first time in fourteen years, have passed an act disfranchising those young men unless they leave school and travel back to the places where they previously resided, and stay there for a certain length of time before the election. It is calculated by the framers of this act that it will deprive six to eight thousand young men of their right of suffrage, and weaken the vote for General Grant to nearly that extent. But the scoundrels have overreached themselves and damaged their own bad cause. These young men thus degraded all have friends and relatives who sympathize with them and will resent the wrong and indignity, and help to punish the authors. Every young man in the State possessing a spark of manhood or decency will espouse the cause of the disfranchised students, and thousands of votes will be lost to the Copperheads for committing this dastardly deed.

The third in the list of acts of persecution for opinion sake caps the climax of villainy. It disfranchises all the worn and wounded, battered and bruised, legless and armless veterans in the Soldiers' Home in Dayton! This cruel outrage was perpetrated for the purpose of securing the election to Congress next fall of whom do [illegible] the real or supposed? Of Clement L. Vallandigham the traitor and rebel! There are 100 wounded soldiers thus disfranchised and prevented from recording their abhorrence of the traitor Vallandigham. It is Pendleton's body guard which has enacted these measures. Is it safe to entrust the government of a country in the hands of ignorant, vicious, despotic brutes like the Copperheads of the Ohio Legislature? What decent or honest man's liberties are safe if ruffians of that description are allowed to make laws? The people mourn when the wicked rule.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!

A Pure and Powerful Tonic,

Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Bilious Remittent Fevers. Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water. Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels.

Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or

PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element, no fiery excitant, but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

Bachelor Brown had lived a bachelor for forty years and had declared his intentions of continuing in the remainder of his life greatly to the satisfaction of his relatives the Hinkles with whom he [illegible] it was known Uncle Richard was worth a good half million and the Hinkles [illegible] tions and [illegible] Mrs Hinkle [illegible] nasty charity [illegible] for his property wh[illegible] should he leave it but to his own cousins or their children

Hopeful as poor human nature is of [illegible] ty Mr and Mrs Hinckle scarcely expect[illegible] to survive their junior by ten years but Adelaide and Rose and Charles and William might in all probability be his heirs [illegible] this end the parents labored Uncle Richard had the best room in the house the best chair and the most particular consideration His wishes were deferred to and his [illegible] taken on every occasion and [illegible] came to be loved for with all his [illegible] old fashioned ways and his habit of sitting as utterly silent as though he had been deaf and dumb he was a loveable man Matters progressed smoothly enough until it was [illegible] and not hypocrisy which made Uncle Richard actually master of the house

He was very obliging wonderfully so in most respects He would attend to anything for anybody match ribbons when [illegible] else could escort the girls to places of amusement—go dutifully to church with their mamma—attend to marketing and the posting of letters, and the gas meter and the turning off of the water in frosty weather He was always ready to search the house with a poker at the dead of night, when any one heard a noise

He went to the dentist with people who wanted their teeth drawn and always seemed to have sugar plums in his pocket But one thing Cousin Richard would not do and that was to exhibit the least sign of politeness to lady visitors

He never saw any home [illegible] spent the evening in their company He invariably shut himself up in his own room and had his tea there when one of these individuals was reported to be in the house and when traveling, had been known in a train to shut his eyes tight when a young lady entered and remained with them closed until she left the carriage. As a general thing indeed he always [illegible] a carriage where he need not be intruded upon.

"It was just as well after all," said Mrs Hinkle, [illegible] was a peculiarity not quite agreeable [illegible] Mr. H., when he found the pleasant [illegible] of seeing Miss Smith and Miss Jones [illegible] imposed upon himself! [illegible] though [illegible] told him so It would not have been [illegible] to provoke him, and if any thing could [illegible] offended Bachelor mortally it [illegible] to insist upon his offering any [illegible] to the softer sex

However a day came at last which set the house in commotion

Miss Amanda Dove had been invited to spend a week with the Hinkles, and Miss Dove being a stranger was to wait at the station until some one came for her in a carriage.

The Hinkles resided some miles out of town, and had not occupied the residence for many months, so that people were not always properly [illegible] by the neighbors

It was [illegible] that Mr. Hinkle should escort Miss Dove, but before the day of her arrival [illegible] business had called that gentleman to Sheffield Moreover Mrs Hinkle had the influenza, and the two boys were at a boarding school No one was to be found to drive, and neither Rose nor Adelaide could handle the reins Miss Dove was to come at [illegible], and what would she think of them if no one came for her

"Indeed," says Mrs Hinkle, "it would be shocking treatment for the dear girl. I must ask your Cousin Richard"

"You never dare, ma," said Rose aghast

"In such a case, you know—" said Mrs Hinkle.

"He'll not do it," said Adelaide

"Of course not," said Rose

Mrs. Hinkle shook her head.

"I fear he will not " she said, and, assuming an expression that would have done credit to Joan of Arc, mounted the stairs to Cousin Richard's study.

"Are you busy, Richard?" she asked as she entered.

"Not at all—sit down," said Bachelor Brown.

"You see how ill I am," said Mrs Hinkle "I can hardly hold up my head, much less drive, and Mr Hinkle is away and the boys too, and no one can handle the reins"

"Well," said Bachelor Brown

"And there is poor Miss Dove at the station, with her trunk by this time" said Mrs Hinkle, with a gasp

"Ah!" said Bachelor Brown, "what a [illegible]"

Mrs. Hinkle felt she had not begun yet Bachelor Brown could not understand what she wanted

"It's a favor a great favor to ask, I know " she said, "but couldn't you just for once do it?"

"Do what, Maria?" asked Bachelor Brown.

"Go for her," said Mrs. Hinkle

"For Miss Dove?"

"Yes"

"Oh, [illegible] no," said Cousin Richard.

"But [illegible]" began Mrs. Hinkle

"Maria," said the old bachelor, "young ladies, [illegible] little ones excepted, are my abomination. An affected, conceited, absurd, set [illegible] I never had anything to do with one, and I never will. No doubt she is [illegible] finding her way here. They all [illegible] I shan't go for her."

Mrs. Hinkle [illegible]

"What will she think of us?" she said

"[illegible]" said Bachelor Brown "I'll [illegible] of the hands over at Oats place drive over for her."

And out he went, but all the hands on Oats place were busy with the hay, which stood in danger from a coming shower Richard returned without the least success.

"A shower, too," said Rose "Poor dear Amanda, I'll try what I can do with my cousin."

And in the study she spent an hour teasing, and worrying without effect

"Let her get lost," said Bachelor Brown "No doubt she'd like it And as for her trunk why can't girls travel with a portmanteau as we do?"

And Rose departed pouting She found Adelaide in an extremely merry mood

"Don't laugh she said," think of poor Amanda.

"I am thinking of her," said Adelaide and cousin Dick shall go I'll tell a fib "

"For shame," said Rose

"One ought to make some sacrifice for a friend," said Adelaide "I'll tell him she's a child He is always good to children

"It will never do," said Mrs Hinkle, "he will never forgive you

But Adelaide ran up to cousin's and burst in with an exceedingly theatrical laugh.

"What a mistake!" she said, and so stupid of them all "You think Amanda is a grown up young lady do you not?"

"Isn't she?" asked the bachelor

"As if a child of nine years could be!" said she "Poor little thing!"

"Poor little thing indeed" said the bachelor, hurrying on his coat and hat "Bless me, why didn't you mention it? Poor little girl

And in a few minutes the light wagonette was driving down the road and the Hinkles stood looking after it

"I am half frightened" said Rose

"So am I," said Adelaide "But it's done and cannot be helped now I'll manage to coax him to forgive me and it [illegible] do to leave a friend in such a position, you know and I didn't say she was a child

Meanwhile Bachelor Brown drove to the station It was a long drive over a bad road but he kept on his way cheerfully He was extremely fond of children

When on reaching the station he saw no sign of her presence he grew alarmed [illegible] she had been lost through his [illegible] could never forgive himself He ran his fingers through his curly hair and [illegible] the ladies' waiting room Only a very tall full grown young woman sat there and he retreated The woman who waited in the apartment came out of her nook with [illegible] shy as she saw him and he addressed her

"Have you seen a little girl waiting for some one?"

"No sir," said the woman "There were two come down but they are gone"

"Oh dear oh dear," said Bachelor Brown, "I hope there is no mistake It is a little Miss Dove and if the dear little soul has [illegible] I am entirely to blame [illegible] make inquiries [illegible]

As he uttered these words the tall young lady in the waiting room was [illegible] slowly

"I am Amanda Dove," she said, "[illegible] told some one from Mr Hinkle's

Bachelor Brown stood aghast He had spoken of this lady as a dear little thing He [illegible] turned scarlet

"I beg your pardon, ma'am," he said "I expected to find a little girl I [illegible] I've used such expressions [illegible]

"[illegible] mp[illegible]" said the young lady "[illegible] mind it the least

"Is this your trunk, ma'am?" asked [illegible] Brown in a hurry

"Yes sir," said the young lady [illegible] down.

And in a few moments the two were driving towards the Hinkles' country seat Never had Bachelor Brown found himself [illegible] so [illegible] young lady save his cousins [illegible] How pretty she was, he thought How pink and white How golden her hair [illegible] the ribbons suit it! [illegible] began to wonder what she thought of him

Wondering thus he forgot the [illegible] suddenly found that he had lost himself To add to the dilemma the storm which had been threatening for hours burst at that very moment when Bachelor Brown found it impossible to tell whether the left road or the right led homeward, and the horse was afraid of lightning, and grew restive Miss Amanda Dove was afraid of lightning also She gave a little scream, and clung to Bachelor Brown's coat sleeve

Bachelor Brown looked down at the little [illegible] such a soft plump hand Her eyes were so round and so blue in her terror that he forgot she was a young lady

"I'll take care of you," he said, a flash of lightning, a roar of thunder, an attempt on the part of the horse to run away, interrupted him

Miss Dove turned pale Bachelor Brown looked terrified He cast a glance about him Near the road was a parsonage connected with its church by a garden

"I'll tell you what we'll do," he said "We'll ask for shelter till the storm is over A clergyman ought to be a Christian enough to take us in

And driving to the gate he assisted Miss Dove to alight As he did so two hired men rushed out and began to attend to the horse and carriage and an old lady and gentleman appeared upon the steps

"So glad you are early enough to escape the worst of the storm," said the gentleman

"Do come in," said the old lady "We were expecting you for on such occasions people always keep their appointments rain or sunshine I believe

"What on earth does she mean?" said Bachelor Brown "But it's very kind of them" and so while the old lady hurried Miss Dove away to dry her things, he sat with the old gentleman in the parlor

"Do you feel at all nervous, sir?" said the old gentleman after a pause

"You expected a young couple?" he said

"Oh, you are quite young enough sir" said the innocent clergyman "And I must say the young lady appears a very charming person

Bachelor Brown felt himself blush

"Should you think she'd make a good wife?" he asked

"Undoubtedly," said the clergyman

"And you think a man is—happier for for—entering the nuptial state?" he inquired

"No man can be happy without so doing and it's every man's duty" said the old gentleman, believing every word he said

"She is a dear little thing" said Mr Brown to himself "I never liked a girl so much It's a very awkward to explain I wonder whether"—

But just then Miss Dove entered the room looking angelic, without her bonnet to Mr Brown Bachelor Brown drew her aside

"I have something to say to you, Miss Dove, he said

"Dear me " said Miss Dove

"They have made a mistake," said Bachelor Brown "They think we [illegible] are the people they expect—a [illegible] young couple you know, about to— "

"Oh dear do they?" whispered Miss Dove

"Yes" said Bachelor Brown "Now it would be very awkward to explain And I like you so much Couldn't you like me to [illegible] and let him do it [illegible]

"Do what Mr Brown?" said Amanda

"Marry us" said Bachelor B

"Of course not," said Amanda "What would the Hinkles say?"

"They would be delighted," said Richard growing bolder Then he put his arm around her waist

"I don't know how much about this sort of thing, but you are the only nice girl I ever saw. Please do. I'll be good to you.

"I know you are good," said Amanda "but"—

"But then I am ugly, eh?" asked Richard

"Ah no, not all "

"Well?"

"It would be so odd "

"Well" said Bachelor Brown "that is my fault and they know I am odd, my dear

Four hours after the Hinkles heard the light wagonette drive to the door, and rushed out to greet Amanda

"We have been so alarmed!" said Mrs. Hinkle

"Such a storm," said Rose

"Were you frightened?" asked Adelaide

But Amanda said nothing

Uncle Richard, too shrunk back as though he was afraid of something

"Tell them Amanda" he said "

"No you tell them, Richard" said Amanda

The Hinkles listened in amazement

"What is there to tell?" asked Mrs Hinkle "What is all this mystery about

And cousin Richard answered sheepishly "Nothing, only we have been getting married This is my wife, Mrs Brown."

It was the only explanation ever offered The Hinkles never comprehended it It was a mystery to them, and though they were profuse in their congratulations and always continued the best of friends the fortune which might have been Rose's or Adelaide's rather troubled Mrs Hinkle, and she always declared in secret family councils that she was perfectly sure Uncle Richard married out of spite to punish Adelaide for the trick she played upon him

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern I hereby give notice that the so called Shipley's Pacific Turbine Water Wheel is a direct infringement and copy of the "James Leffel's American Double Turbine Water Wheel" and [illegible] prohibited Any person or persons making, using, constructing or vending said Wheel [illegible] liable for all damages and penalties Parties interested will take notice for I shall prosecute all infringements to the utmost extent of the law

That all may know I mean what I say and am not playing bluff I give the following extract from a legal opinion on this subject from one of the most eminent Patent Attorneys in the United States

Washington D C April 17 1868

Mr A Myers In accordance with your request we have examined the patents of Shipley on Water Wheels and are clearly of the opinion that they both infringe the Leffel's patents In both of Shipley's Wheels he uses the upper and lower tiers of buckets [illegible] Leffel's [illegible] The fact that Shipley has applied another series of buckets in addition [illegible] used by Leffel does not relieve him from the consequences of infringement [illegible] It is a clear infringement Respectfully yours,

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL San Francisco Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases [illegible] Gonorrhea, Gleet Stricture Syphilis in all its forms Seminal Weakness Impotency etc Skin Diseases [illegible] years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of [illegible] male and female are thus [illegible] are all [illegible] or from vices absorbed into the system Look at their pallid emaciated [illegible] broken down constitutions [illegible] the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrible matter then should suffer until death closes the scene Let parents guardians friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these terrible life destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late Send them immediately to Dr Gibbon a physician who has made private diseases his specialty for years and who has certain to cure the most [illegible] without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted as well as to all [illegible] the welfare of their friends [illegible] careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities [illegible] in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self abuse This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms unless [illegible] sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins weakness of the limbs confused vision, blunted intellect loss of confidence diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances a disposition to shun society loss of memory, hectic flushes pimples and various eruptions about the face furred tongue fetid breath coughs consumption night sweats [illegible] and frequent insanity If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by this new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge

CURED AT HOME

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon stating case symptoms length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use for Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co

Caution to the Unfortunate

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who will bogus sworn to certificates dupe the unwary Some of the self styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades Some are from the slice makers newspaper carriers intelligence office keepers etc Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it but you will find their former occupations in it Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863 The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets For as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are Dr Gibbon hereby defies people by exhibiting bogus titles certificates pretended patients letters etc Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure

Medical and Surgical

INSTITUTE.

 CONSULTATION IN ALL CASES, FREE

 CURES GUARANTEED, OR NO PAY REQUIRED.

 IN ALL CASES WHERE CONFIDENCE IS REQUIRED THE UTMOST SECRESY MAINTAINED.

The above rules, established by Dr. J. C. Young in 1850, and which have done so much to secure the reputation of this Institute, are still adhered to, affording those in need of medical aid, the certainty of cure and the utmost confidence.

There is nothing of so great importance to the sick as to know where to find a physician whose skill and [illegible] give assurance of proper and delicate treatment. The Doctor would respectfully call the attention of those of both sexes, who are suffering or in trouble, to the invariable success that has marked the career of the Institute in the seventeen years of its existence.

It is unnecessary in this connection to enumerate all the complaints treated at the Institute, but the Doctor feels it his duty to call especial attention to that terrible scourge, SEMINAL WEAKNESS, That is sapping with its insidiousness the very life of its victims; in the treatment and cure of which the Institute has earned so enviable a reputation.

READ! READ

I am aware that by dwelling upon so [illegible] jects as the decay of manly vigor through the [illegible] vital principle of life the ignorant may [illegible] tise; but the desire to point out to those who [illegible] guish and decay the true cause of their [illegible] great an incentive to be forced into [illegible] tended the terrible disease of Seminal W[illegible] one but the practical specialist who [illegible] treatment can tell, but its presence can be [illegible] the most inexperienced by noting the [illegible] toms Weakness of the back and [illegible] feelings, loss of [illegible] power, [illegible] cold feet or hands, accompanied by hot [illegible] of consumption short breath, [illegible] aversion to society [illegible] nightly [illegible] colorless [illegible] least excitement; trembling, palpitation [illegible] regular [illegible] irritable temper, etc.

YOUNG MAN if you experience any of the symptoms enumerated above, [illegible] present is the golden [illegible] health and [illegible] You may feel [illegible] you have ever practiced the vice of self [illegible] summer [illegible], you have the seeds of [illegible] system, and their undermining influence will, sooner or later, dash the fair edifice of your [illegible] ground, leaving you a helpless [illegible] disease that declares itself at [illegible] est danger; for while the patient is [illegible] affection of the Heart Lungs, Brain, or [illegible] tions, he sinks into a general [illegible] to the list of the victims of the terrible [illegible] Weakness.

See in the best form and [illegible] victim of the fascinating vice! Mark the destructive complaint in the hollow cheek and [illegible]

Drowsiness is one of the premonitory [illegible] first it is easily shaken off, but it grows [illegible] great disinclination to pursue his regular [illegible] mind becomes apprehensive, and restless [illegible] days of depression.

It is the nature of the complaint to [illegible] changes that leave the poor victim but little [illegible] covery In a single instant it may [illegible] hopes and blast your [illegible]

Marriage is sought by a natural [illegible] lief This is an error of the first magnitude, [illegible] tem unprepared for the exigencies of the [illegible] denly fails and he finds himself in a [illegible] from which there is but the slightest hope of [illegible] Or if the marriage should result in [illegible] ty, distorted, decrepid, and degenerate [illegible] ble to both sexes whether married or single [illegible] times of life

Do not delay if you feel any of the [illegible] rible complaint or if your acts have been [illegible] to them but by instant application [illegible] only hope of health and happiness The [illegible] mercury or other deleterious drugs [illegible] time always guaranteed and full and [illegible] stored.

The afflicted are assured of every [illegible]

PERSONS AFFLICTED [illegible] NERMAL.

During the seventeen years since the [illegible] the Institute, the number of cases of [illegible] been treated show a record unon[illegible] in the world and the success that has [illegible] the course of treatment

Without Mercury or other D[illegible]
Drugs,

Shows conclusively the use of them to be [illegible] called for but actually dangerous for it is [illegible] established medical principle that [illegible] by entering the blood, ruin the [illegible] life.

The Doctor effects a cure in recent [illegible] and finds no difficulty in curing those of long [illegible] without subjecting the patient to such [illegible] draw upon him the slightest suspicion, or neglect his business, whether [illegible] diet need not be changed Cures always [illegible] no pay required

IMPORTANT TO F[illegible]

When a female is in trouble or afflicted with [illegible] requires medical or surgical [illegible] [illegible] Where is there a physician [illegible] relief and whose respectable standing in [illegible] commend him to the confidence of the [illegible] Doctor understanding how imperatively [illegible] requirements are feels called upon to [illegible] calling the attention of the afflicted to the [illegible] been a Professor of Obstetrics and [illegible] ty years and is fully qualified to [illegible] both medically and surgically not in [illegible] but in as thorough a manner as years of study [illegible] in hospitals and private famil[illegible] them from the hands of the [illegible] designing Therefore, families can rely [illegible] a father All in affliction can find in him [illegible] and sympathise with and befriend them in [illegible] in whose [illegible] the utmost confidence [illegible] consultation by letter or [illegible] teed in all weakness and trouble [illegible] Private apartments are provided when [illegible] be had all the advantages of unremitted [illegible] Doctor, and the most skillful and [illegible]

To CORRESPONDENTS —Persons, either male or [illegible] residing in the Interior are often deterred [illegible] the Doctor because they cannot spare the [illegible] the expense of a visit to the city [illegible] that a plain statement of the [illegible] bearing upon the complaint, will [illegible] for them so that they can be cured at [illegible] have any false delicacy about writing, so [illegible] nature of their complaint, as the [illegible] seen by no one except the Doctor, and will be [illegible] the strictest confidence and either be returned or [illegible]
